Dear Friend:

I am pleased to announce that the Indiana Civil Rights Commission, in conjunction with the Indiana Consortium of Human Rights Agencies, will host the 59th Annual Conference of the National Association of Human Rights Workers (NAHRW). The conference, Securing the Blessings of Liberty, will be held in Indianapolis, Indiana from November 5-9, 2006, at the Westin Hotel.

The conference will bring together professionals and volunteers actively involved in human rights, civil rights, and human and intergroup relations, such as housing providers, advocates, HR managers, EEO/AA officers, lenders, conflict resolution managers, mediators, attorney, employers, educators, government officials, ministers, and human and civil rights workers from across the country to engage in training and dialogue on contemporary human rights issues.

Founded in 1947, NAHRW is committed to providing education, research, networking and professional development to foster equality within a diverse society.

We invite your agency to participate in this important endeavor by being an exhibitor, advertising in the program book, and/or providing a sponsorship. Details for each of these opportunities are enclosed. The deadline for faxing or mailing the Conference Opportunity Agreement is August 28, 2006.
